

120,000 GERMANS REPULSED AT LIEGE

28,000 KAISER'S MEN KILLED; BELGIUM LOSS ESTIMATED 7,500; GERMANS ARE MOWED DOWN

An hundred and twenty thousand German soldiers were mowed down like wheat before a reaper by the Belgian artillery at Liege today, according to a dispatch from Brussels, says the International News Service in a special to The Eagle.

Telegrams received earlier in the day told of the arrival of the French fighters to assist the courageous Belgians, who had fought desperately to save Liege from the reckless Germans, who for some reason, seem to have been the heaviest losers in all battles, according to news dispatches.

The telegrams said that the Germans would probably make a desperate attempt to capture Liege before the French soldiers could take up positions. How fatal this effort was to the Germans, is told in a later telegram.

As usual, the afternoon papers are the first to give to the world the story of the fatal assault on Liege, in which thousands of German soldiers paid the penalty of war.

German Loss Heavy.

Brussels, Aug. 8.—The German troops suffered another disastrous repulse at Liege today. Hurling explosives at the forts, the Germans made a desperate assault with one hundred and twenty thousand men. The men were mowed down like wheat before a reaper by the Belgian artillery. The total loss of Germans in fighting at Liege is officially estimated tonight at twenty-eight thousand. The Belgian loss unofficially land.

Italy Will Fight Germany if Neutrality is Violated.

Washington, Aug. 8.—An official dispatch from the American Ambassador at Rome states that Italy will join other powers in fighting Germany and Austria if Germany or Austria violates Italy's neutrality. Italian reserves have been called to colors.

French and Belgian Armies Unite Near Liege.

Brussels, Aug. 8.—It was officially announced that French and Belgian armies have been united near Liege.

French troops arrived to help the garrison at Liege and are expected to go into action in a few hours. Germans are trying to strike a decisive blow before the French get in position.

An official statement says the German loss is fifteen thousand killed and wounded, and prisoners. This doesn't include today's fighting. The Belgian loss is much smaller.

It is reported that fifteen hundred members of the Brandenburg Guards, a crack regiment of which the Kaiser was an honorary colonel, were killed by the explosion of a mine while charging Fort Berchillon.

Columbia Celebrates 100th. Anniversary

Business and social activities were cast aside yesterday in Columbia for an old-fashioned celebration of its 100th birthday. Races of all kinds were the leading attractions. Only adults were allowed to compete but they produced the necessary fun. Mules, oxen, goats, and horses took an active part on the race course, which was the main street of the town. There were also races on foot and on bicycles. In the morning the home baseball team played a crack team from Arlington and won, but lost the afternoon game.

After a few other minor events the day closed and the crowd of interested spectators went home for a good night's rest.

GOOD ROADS DAYS TO BE BIG SUCCESS

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 8.—Every indication and report point to the fact that Good Roads Days, August 14th-15th, will be widely observed in every county in the State. Boards of revenue, mayors, officers of county road associations and good roads advocates have notified Secretary J. A. Rountree at the headquarters of the Alabama Good Roads Association that the days will be observed in their respective counties and that lasting work will be done upon the roads, as well as to arouse a great deal of enthusiasm.

The Alabama Good Roads Association requests county officials to report at Headquarters the work that is done in their respective counties, so that proper credit can be given to the volunteer workers throughout the state. It is estimated that over 100,000 people will work the roads on these days and that work will be done worth at least half a million dollars to the State.

Alabama has received a great deal of advertising by this progressive movement in pushing forward and making Good Roads Days such a great success.

MEN MAKE BOND; AWAIT ACTION OF HIGHER COURT

Seven of the alleged blind tiger operators who were discharged the other day on habeas corpus hearings in the Probate Court, have made bond and the other two are expected to do likewise, following the action of the State in filing bills of exception from the ruling of Probate Judge A. C. Crawford.

Because the warrants were sworn out in the court of Justice of the Peace and made returnable to the Circuit Court, Judge Crawford says that he ruled the defendants were being illegally restrained of their liberties and set them free.

The State has filed bills of exception to the ruling of Judge Crawford, asking that the legality of his decisions go before the Supreme Court for decision. Judge Crawford has 30 days in which to reply. In the meantime, he says, his law-

HAMLIN FOR GOVERNOR OF RESERVE BOARD

Washington, Aug. 8.—It is officially announced that Charles D. Hamlin will be governor of the federal reserve board, and Frederick A. Delano vice governor.

The new currency law will be put into effect as soon as possible. The first task will be the election of directors for Class "C" reserve banks. Six Democrats and one Republican comprise the board.

yers are busy investigating the law in the matter.

That the alleged "blind tigers" mean to stay and fight the question to the end in the courts, is indicated by the fact that seven have made bond for their appearance. A hard legal battle will likely be fought before the question is settled.

SEVEN REGIMENTS OF GERMANS ARE ANNIHILATED BY BELGIANS

Brussels, Aug. 8.—German artillery bombarded Liege fortifications throughout the night and at dawn resumed assault on the city in the midst of a heavy storm. The conflict is growing more desperate each day.

A division of the German cavalry consisting of seven regiments were surprised shortly after crossing the Meuse river and annihilated by Belgians. Five thousand of them were made prisoners. The armistice late yesterday for burying the dead lasted only two hours.

King Albert, just returned from the front, addressed the people from the palace steps and said the Germans could cross Belgium only over his dead body.

Germans succeeded in holding Broussay, a suburb of Liege, captured yesterday.

Lesson Text For Sunday

12. And on the morrow, when they were come from Bethany he was hungry.

13. And seeing a fig tree afar off having leaves, he came, if haply he might find anything thereon; and when he came to it, he found nothing but leaves; for the time of figs was not yet.

14. And Jesus answered and said unto him, No man eat fruit of thee hereafter for ever. And his disciples heard it.

15. And they come to Jerusalem and Jesus went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple and overthrew the tables of the money-changers, and the seats of them that sold doves.

16. And would not suffer that any man should carry any vessel through the temple.

17. And he taught, saying unto them, Is it not written, My house shall be called of all nations the house of prayer? but ye have made it a den of thieves.

18. And the scribes and chief priests heard it, and sought how they might destroy him: for they feared him, because all the people was astonished at his doctrine.

19. And when even was come, he went out of the city.

20. And in the morning, as they passed by, they saw the fig tree dried up from the roots.

21. And Peter calling to remembrance saith unto him, Master, behold, the fig tree which thou cursedst is withered away.

22. And Jesus answering saith unto them, Have faith in God.

23. For verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass, he shall have whatsoever he saith.

24. Therefore I say unto you, What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them.

25. And when ye stand praying, forgive, if ye have ought against any: that your Father also which is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses.

26. But if ye do not forgive, neither will your Father which is in heaven forgive your trespasses.

THE GREAT NEED OF OUR TIME.

From the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.
By Hugo Munsterberg, professor of psychology, Harvard University, in the Chicago Tribune: Asked what the really great things are which marked the past in the last thousands of years, the imagination responds to all kinds of technical wonders. Steamships and the railways are pictured and further back the gunpowder and the printing press; we admire the great cities which men have built and the canals which they have dug; and there seems no end to the glorious achievements. But when we begin to think seriously and pierce a little deeper, we soon discover that all these outer things are, after all, less important and less decisive than some of the inner great changes which have come to mankind.
The message of love which religion brought, the gospel of freedom, the spirit of culture, the belief in the brotherhood of man, the awakening of the moral conscience, have all changed the world more than any of the outer wonders. Every great revolution has come from the human heart.

It is not different when we think:
What is the really great need of today? What ought to be changed to make our life more worth living and to raise our nation to unprecedented heights? Of course, much might be improved in our surroundings. Many inventions might serve us; many measures might serve us; and yet the greatest must still come from within. We need again a great new message to stir the soul of the nation. We have the spirit of freedom and of love and of work and of good will. Yet there is something deeply wrong with our time, and a better tomorrow can be hoped for only if a great change comes to our inner world.

The thousand social ailments of our day can be cured only by one remedy: Our generation needs more self-control, more discipline. It is easy to draw an absurd caricature of discipline, as if it meant a kind of de-fashioned tyranny, which forces the will of one man on another. There is no other kind of discipline; a man is to become hisself.

THIS WOMAN'S SICKNESS

Quickly Yielded To Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Baltimore, Md. — "I am more than glad to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me.
I suffered dreadful pains and was very irregular. I became alarmed and sent for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
I took it regularly until I was without a cramp or pain and felt like another person, and it has now been six months since I took any medicine at all. I hope my little note will assist you in helping other women. I now feel perfectly well and in the best of health." — Mrs. AUGUST W. KONDNER, 1632 Hollins Street, Baltimore, Md.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ailments, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ailments, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, obstruction, tumors, irregularities, etc.

own master, instead of being a slave to the tyranny of his law and cheap desires.

It was different in the past.
American life of earlier periods was modest, hard and under the authority of the church. The puritanic spirit held the masses in firm control, and the simplicity of the right pioneer life checked the frivolous mind. But the world has moved on.
The country has become abundantly rich; a love of luxury has over-flooded the nation. Gigantic cities have swollen up, and the craving for pleasure has spread from the white ways of the big towns to the smallest villages. The church has lost much of its hold, the old faith has crumbled, and the nation has replaced it by the one great creed of efficiency, of success, of worldliness.

The new-fashioned scheme begins in the school days—any, even in the nursery. The child no longer learns to submit to a stern command, but is welcome to do as he pleases. He is sometimes begged to change his mind, sometimes perauaded, and sometimes bribed; but he has seldom a chance to learn obedience. And yet he who has not learned to be obedient can never really master himself. The kindergarten method of play is creeping into school life; our youngsters follow only the path of least resistance. They learn a thousand pretty things in the school, and not the chief thing which makes life worth living; to do their duty. It is surprising that this go-as-you-please feeling streams into all channels of our public life.

The nation sees with terror the waste of its natural resources. The riches of forests and the rivers and mines are shamelessly wasted. The timber is burned and not replanted; millions of tons of coal are ruined in the mines. If there were more self-discipline in the spirit of the country, such selfish destruction would be checked. The duty to the coming generations would call a halt. The whole nation denounces corruption and graft. The police is ineffective; the street cleaning is wretched; the municipal life everywhere is riddled, not by real victiousness but simply by this thoughtless, careless public feeling, which shrinks from any stern demand and lets things go as selfishness shapes them. The mud in our streets and the mud in our politics cry for the broom of discipline. If youth does not learn self-control and discipline and the spirit of obedience to authority, it can be no surprise that there are twenty times more murder cases to the million of population in our country than in western Europe, and a hundred times more railway accidents than ever before.

In one complaint layers of our nation agree; the cost of living is too high. But no tariff can eradicate the fundamental evil.
If the lesson of self-discipline had been learned, no one would crave the new fashioned gowns which add much to the cost of living, when last season's gown might just as well be used. But we pay not alone with our purse; we have to pay with our health and our nerves, with our consciences and our morality, because this lack of self-discipline makes all the selfish, frivolous and lawless desires grow rankly. The auto, the kino and the tango have become the symbols of our amusement craving time. All kinds of little remedies are prescribed. Sexual education is to help us; and yet no more learning about sexual life can help a community which does not find in its own sense of duty and discipline the energy to suppress the immoral impulse. The time for the little remedies for the national waste, for living beyond our means for corruption and graft, for vice and crime, has passed; and the muck-rakers do not help either. Only one thing can help us: a serious appeal to the conscience of the nation to believe again in discipline and self-control. And this belief must be planted in the heart of every American boy and girl.

NEAR DEATH
BY SMOTHERING

Not Husband, With Aid of Cardui, Effects Her Deliverance.

Draper, N. C. —Mrs. Helen Dalton, of this place, says: "I suffered for years with pains in my left side, and would often almost smother to death."

Medicines pitched me up for awhile but then I would get worse again. Finally, my husband decided he wanted me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, so he bought me a bottle and I began using it.
It did me more good than all the medicines I had taken.

I have induced many of my friends to try Cardui, and they all say they have been benefited by its use. There never has been, and never will be, a medicine to compare with Cardui. I believe it is a good medicine for all womanly troubles."

For over 50 years, Cardui has been relieving women's sufferings and building weak women up to health and strength.

If you are a woman, give it a fair trial.
It should surely help you, as it has a million others.

Monday

Is Going To Be A Busy Day At
The Red Front
5 & 10c Store.
—FOR MONDAY—

All purchases of 50c and over will be delivered in the city FREE.
It does not matter what you buy, just so your purchase amounts to 50c or over. Of course phone orders will not be given this commiration. This special inducement is simply to get you to visit our store.
(We want you to see some of the thousands of little things, many of which perhaps you may need in your home.)

Crockery, Graniteware, Enamel-ware, Tinware, Woodenware, Glassware, Hardware, Toys, Dolls, So-tions, Laces, Embroideries—a little of almost everything.

We are going to do our dead level best to make this a store of which YOU will feel proud—anyway, you come down Monday and take a look with us and see if you think we are in earnest about this business. You will certainly not regret coming to where on earth is there an economical woman who does not love to look at things, especially when they are so reasonably priced as you'll find everything here? Now take your pencil and check the items you need as we quote them, bear in mind that only a few of the items carried here are quoted:

AFTER ALL.
When the dust is in your eyes,
And the grave damp in your hair It may matter very little What you did or what you were.

You have tried to make men laugh You have tried to make men weep But that old and true will vanish When you lie in your final sleep.

You have sold strength for tea,
You have sold wisdom for wine;
But the angels will not see you When you lie in your final wine.

There is profit sure in loss,
And in giving there is gain;
And a man may kneel at altars And be nine times worse than Cain.
He may walk with head held high,
But the murder-brands are red—The nine scars his forehead on Tell the world of nine men dead.
In the death hour he may hear Prayer of priest and child and friend, But the nine men shall be waiting In the lonely evening-end.

What will all earth's gold be worth,
All the prayers and psalms that rise, When he looks—forn and stricken—In their strange, accusing eyes?
When the yellow mould is heaped On your oaken coffin lid It may be that it will matter What you were and what you did.
—Roderic Quinn.

MATRIMONIAL REACTIONS.
The first of August must bring some pretty sober moments to the June crop of newly-weds. It is about this time of year that the inevitable readjustments, which accompany the discarding of old habits and relations, and the assumption of new, begin to be irksome. The bride is interrupted in the course of a shopping excursion by the recollection that she is spending money in which she has at most only half interest. That is a new experience tending to inspire some heavy thinking on the nature of matrimonial partnerships. Heretofore she has looked upon money as her natural right. Perhaps father has provided it without stint; more than likely, in these days of independent girls, she has earned it herself, and has therefore, never had reason to deny herself anything within her means. Some men propose that the husband join him in a week of fishing at a lake. The idea strikes him as fine, and before he can stop himself, enthusiastic words of acceptance slip from his tongue. Then he explains that he has decided to stay at home that year, and that perhaps he will go next year. He returns home with his spirits reduced to a level perceptibly lower than usual, and when his wife asks if he is working too hard, he has to force a reply to the effect that he enjoys hard work for he wants to get that salary increase which will mean a better house next year. These instances multiply; and sometimes they lead to regrets, which, fortunately, are generally short-lived.

Given health, good spirits, a few common tastes, and the opportunity, and a young man and a young woman will fall in love just as naturally as a duck takes to water—and the chances are that they will get married just as soon as they can. With the exception of a few hopeless misogynists, most perhaps will agree that the days of courtship and honeymoon are about the happiest that life has to offer. But life has a peculiar way of making people pay for happiness, and the post-honey-moon reaction is merely life collecting its account. The natural plasticity of young people's characters is, however, the best safeguard against hasty and rash departures from the new duties which matrimony has thrust upon them. The ordeal may be alloying while it lasts but a glance around will prove that most married people weather the storm, and are better for the experience.
